

COLUMBIA ASTRONOMY OUTREACH PRESENTS:

STARGAZING, FILM & LECTURE SERIES

Of Starquakes and Supernovae: A Story of Neutron Stars

A lecture by Jennifer Weston
Friday, August 19th, 8:00PM
Pupin Hall, Columbia University

If the entire human race fell into a neutron star, we would compress to the the size of a sugar cube. Learn about the life, death, and discovery of these cousins to Black Holes.

These are free lectures at a public level followed by guided stargazing with telescopes (weather permitting). All events are held at Pupin Hall at Columbia University. No reservations are needed. Lectures are 30 minutes, stargazing lasts 90 minutes.
