

COLUMBIA ASTRONOMY OUTREACH PRESENTS:

STARGAZING & LECTURE SERIES

Astronomer vs Astronomer

by Jennifer Weston

Friday, November 8th, 7:00PM

Pupin Hall, Columbia University

We take a lot of our modern scientific knowledge for granted - what is known and what is not. But things weren't always so clear cut. Join us to discuss a few of the greatest fights in astronomy in the past 150 years, and how they were resolved.

These are free lectures at a public level followed by guided stargazing with telescopes (weather permitting).

All events are held at Pupin Hall at Columbia University. No reservations are needed.

Lectures are 30 minutes, stargazing lasts 90 minutes. Stay only as long as you want.
