As a complement to our public lecture events during the school year, in the summer we switch to screening science fiction films. Following the film is a short discussion describing the relevant science found in the film with special attention to separating fact from fiction. Stargazing is available on the plaza in front of Pupin Hall (weather permitting).

Films are introduced, shown, and later discussed by scientists, separating science fact from fiction.

Films are followed by guided stargazing with telescopes (weather permitting).

All events are free, open to all members of the public, and held at Columbia University.
